"Conqueror Of The Jungle"

Sir Roger Westfall, governor-general of Tanganyika and the members of his council were assembled in the Government House. Their guest was a young American, Henry Chandler, food expert for the American Food Research Laboratories.

"We can state our problem in a simple way," began Sir Westfall. "There is an increasing native population that must be fed. We do not have sufficient exports to enable us to import the needed food on such a vast scale. That means we must turn land hitherto unused into land suitable for agriculture. We must also decide upon the agricultural product to be used. For the past three months you have been making a survey of our land, our people, and of our resources. What have you to suggest that would help us?"

The young American arose from his chair and faced the group of men who were assembled to hear his report. He knew it would be a hard job to sell them the idea. He began to speak slowly.

"For centuries mankind has spoken about the jungle as a sort of enemy. For within the jungle are animals and insects that can be harmful. We know that right here in Tanganyika, insect life has driven away men and cattle. You could raise more cattle if you could get rid of the injurious insects. However, you would also need more food for the cattle. What I have to suggest will be a way to give the natives more food, give cattle more food, and add to the income of your people."

He stopped speaking for two minutes to let the words sink into the minds of his hearers. He was now ready for the dramatic touch and hoped it would succeed. He wanted his hearers to challenge him.

"I suggest you start a series of peanut farms over the country," he continued. "The peanut is one of the most useful vegetables. Aside from being eaten as a fresh vegetable, it is used in making vegetable oil and oil cake or meal. The meal you feed to the cattle. You will end up with more margarine, cooking oil, salad oil, more soap, and more money. I could spend hours telling you about the many uses of the peanut. In recent years research has developed a cork substitute from the shells. The American scientist, George Washington Carver, discovered some 300 uses for the peanut. He made experimentally and successfully: cheese, milk, coffee, flour, ink, dyes, wood stains, and insulating board. The protein product of peanuts is suitable for making textile fibres. The Imperial Chemical Industries Ltd. of Britain have developed a wool-like fabric called Ardil. Within a year, your first peanut farm could be in full operation."

"But where would we get the land?" challenged Sir Westfall. "Most of us are acquainted with the possibilities of peanut agriculture. You give us the land and we will give you the green light to go ahead. We have a government fund of about twenty million dollars in American currency that can be used to purchase the needed machinery."

This was the moment for which Henry Chandler had been waiting. He spoke in a softer tone for effect.

"Remove the jungle and you have all the land you want."

There was a deadly quiet as the import of those words began to sink into the minds of his hearers.

"How would you get the necessary machinery?" asked John Hendley, under-secretary.

"The heavy tractors and bulldozers will come from the United States, Canada, and Britain," replied the young American. "We will purchase one thousand surplus Sherman tanks, remove the heavy armor and turn them into heavy tractors. We shall also obtain a wide range of other kinds of machinery and equipment such as landing craft and cranes; jeeps and lorries; many kinds of tools; workshops; equipment for engineering the water supply; drugs and surgical stores; surveying materials; tents, huts, furniture, household and sanitary supplies; and building and electric stores."

"What a gigantic scheme," uttered Sir Westfall. "You have my permission to start at once. However, if we could get the natives of Kongwa to help, the labor problem would be solved. Suppose we visit the village at the end of the week."

In the Central Province of Tanganyika was situated what is known as Kongwa. The area chosen for the first peanut farm was 240 miles from the east coast port of Dar-es-Salaam and sixteen miles north of the main line of the central Tanganyika railway. The native inhabitants of Kongwa are known as Wagogo. They live in squat, flat-roofed huts which were mud walled and thatched. Often each hut was surrounded by plots of sorghum, millet, and maize. This was an attempt to raise the necessary food. During the dry season, from early May to mid November, the Mugogo looks after his few cattle. After the rains he repairs his house and cultivates his small plot of land. Chief G'nombo was in his large thatched house. He had been listening to all details of the plan. He had been educated at Oxford and the welfare of his people was dear to him. He replied in perfect English.

"Insofar as my opinion is needed, you can start at once to remove the heavy jungle area that lies to the right of us. Your offer to pay my people in money for their services is a welcome one. But they still hate and fear the jungle. Once it is removed, I know they will be happy. But how to get them to be willing to run your machinery is a serious problem. Meanwhile, I suggest you use your own labor force. My people will watch, and surely some opportunity will present itself to make them want to work."

As Sir Westfall and Henry Chandler started to leave the house, a smiling boy of about ten approached them. It was easy to notice the resemblance between the youngster and his father, the chief. The young American took out some round candy balls from his pocket and handed them to the boy.

"Some candy. I brought from America. Hope you like these. I have more for you."

"Thank you," replied the boy. He took them and placed one in his mouth. Then a big smile appeared on his face.

"Um, 'm' was all he said. But in anybody's language when a youngster says that about candy it can only mean: Delicious."

A month later the first shipment of tractors and bulldozers arrived. With them came a crew of men whose task it was to train others to operate and service the machinery. It had also been agreed that they themselves would work for at least two months.

During the next two weeks, the machinery began to attack and destroy the jungle. Armed guards were ready in case any of the animals forced out of the jungle tried to attack the people. It had been decided to try to capture all the animals alive, cage them, and transfer them to the restricted preserve area in Southern Rhodesia. There they would be freed to continue their existence without any fear of the hunter.

Crowds of quiet natives would assemble and watch the machines in their daily successful battle against the jungle. But they still refused to offer their services. Gilbert Marshal, a Canadian, in charge of the operation, was puzzled.

"I don't get it," he said to Henry Chandler. "We are destroying their greatest enemy. You'd think they would be happy to help us. Yet I sort of feel they are waiting for some kind of a chance to want to help. Each is watching the other to see who weakens first."

It happened on a Thursday morning. The young American was at the wheel of a tractor. He had stopped for a few minutes. The chief's son approached.

"Some more candy, please," he asked.

As Henry Chandler started to hand him the candy, they fell on the seat next to him. The youngster climbed up and scooped the candy into his left hand. He noticed everything and asked, "Show me how to run it."

A half hour later the young American was on the other seat. The boy was having the time of his life at the controls. Hundreds of natives appeared on the scene. The drums were sending out a message. Finally the chief appeared with a group of his nobles.

"We almost had a crisis," he told the young American. "They feel ashamed. They claim they thought the machines were too complicated for them to learn how to operate. Nobody told them a boy could run one of these machines. So please teach them how to operate the tractors. Once you do that, the rest of my people will help."

It took fourteen months to remove the entire jungle. But the first peanut farm was in operation one year after the war against the jungle had commenced.

"It took modern machinery to do the trick," remarked Sir Westfall.

"It took my people to remove the jungle," added Chief G'nombo.

"It really took American candy," corrected Henry Chandler. "In our wildest imaginations, who would have ever thought candy balls would conquer the jungle!"

NATURE BOY

Nature BOY BRINGING UP in JUNIOR

YOUNG DAVE CRANDALL NEEDED A FEW DOLLARS TO BUY BOOKS AND THE THINGS A YOUNG TEEN AGER NEEDS -- BUT HE NEVER HAD TROUBLE ON ANY OF HIS AFTER SCHOOL JOBS TILL HE BABY SAT FOR SHELDON DRAKE, THE THIRD! THEN HE NEEDED THE ARMY, NAVY, AND THE MARINES TO HELP HIM OUT...

IT LOOKED LIKE A NICE PEACEFUL NIGHT AND THE CHANCE TO EARN SOME POCKET MONEY WHEN DAVE TOOK THE JOB, BUT IT DIDN'T WORK THAT WAY...

JUNIOR GOES TO BED EARLY SO YOU SHOULDN'T HAVE ANY TROUBLE-- BUT HE'S UNPREDICTABLE! KEEP AN EYE ON HIM!

WHERE IS HE?

HEY! DON'T YOU HAVE HOME-WORK TO DO?

SHHH... THERE'S PIRATES IN THE GARDEN! MAYBE THEY'RE GONNA COME AFTER US, HUH? GEE, THAT'D BE FUN!

NATURE BOY

AN HOUR PASSED -- WITH JUNIOR DOING HIS HOMEWORK BUT CASTING GLANCES AT THE GARDEN ALL THE TIME ...

JUNIOR KNEW ABOUT THE PROWLERS OUTSIDE, BUT HE WANTED ADVENTURE AND THE COMBINATION OF NATURE BOY AS BABY SITTER AND THE PROWLERS OUTSIDE PROMISED PLENTY ...

...BUT NATURE BOY WAS ON HIS OWN! THE MASTERS OF THE ELEMENTS WERE HAVING A BALL ...

NATURE BOY

BUT THE BATTLE WAS TOO ONESIDED. YOUNG DAVE CRANDELL, DEPRIVED OF HIS GOD-LIKE FRIENDS WAS ALMOST HELPLESS AGAINST THE ARMED MEN...

NATURE BOY--THE ADOPTED SON OF THE LORDS OF THE ELEMENTS KNEW HE'D LOSE THE UNEVEN BATTLE WITHOUT HELP...

ARRO-The CAVEMAN

WOMEN HAVEN'T CHANGED MUCH, AS ARRO WOULD FIND OUT IF HE WERE ALIVE TODAY...TAKE THE TIME HIS GIRL WANTED A NEW FUR COAT...

REALLY, ARRO, ITS GOTTEN SO I CAN'T HOLD MY HEAD UP ANY MORE, ALL THE WOMEN SNEER WHEN THEY SEE ME IN LAST YEARS TIGER SKIN!

UMM...LET'S SEE...THAT LOOKS A LITTLE LIKE THE ANIMAL...

IT'S BAD ENOUGH I HAVE TO GO AROUND IN RAGS BUT YOU WON'T EVEN LISTEN WHEN I TALK!

HUH...WHO ME? I HEARD EVERY WORD YOU SAID! SOMETHING ABOUT...ER...NOW WHAT DID YOU SAY...

NATURE BOY

NATURE BOY

MY ONE CHANCE!

THE HUGE TEETH SNAPS SHUT AND...

WHAT A BREAK! THIS ARROW SHOULD DO THE BUSINESS...

IF I CAN GET HIM BACK TO THE CAVES WE'LL HAVE ENOUGH TO EAT FOR A MONTH... BUT HE'S TOO... OOF... HEAVY!

HMM... THIS MAY TAKE CARE OF THE TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM!

I MUST BE GETTING WEAK... IT WAS ALL I COULD DO TO ROLL HIM ONTO THE LOGS... NOW IF MY IDEA WORKS...

GEE... THIS IS EASY! I WONDER WHY NO ONE EVER THOUGHT OF IT BEFORE! ALL I HAVE TO DO IS KEEP PUTTING THE LOG THAT COMES OUT AT THE BACK, IN FRONT, AND THEN ROLLING THEM ALONG!

A NEW SCIENTIFIC TOY!

NUTTY PUTTY

ONLY $1<sup>00</sup>

NUTTY PUTTY...

real crazy!!! A liquid solid! Amazing and fun! Roll into a ball, it bounces! Hit with hammer—it shatters! Pull it slowly—it stretches! Press it on a comic book and it steals a perfect impression in color... Leave it alone and it sinks into a tired little puddle. Comes in a leakproof plastic egg... You'll relax with this one—and really have a ball. It is made of the wonder material your parents have read about in Life, Time, and other magazines. Truly a great new toy. This is the real THING.

Don't Be Half A Man!

Let Me PROVE I Can Make You a REAL HE MAN from Head to Toe—in Just 15 Minutes a Day!

ARE YOU:

- Skinny and Run Down?
- Always Tired?
- Nervous?
- Shy and Lacking in Confidence?
- Overweight and Short of Breath?
- Constipated or Irregular?
- Suffering from Bad Breath?
- Troubled by Pimples and a Poor Complexion?
- Slow at Sports?
- Do you Want to Gain Weight?
- Are You Ashamed of your Half-Man Build?

NOBODY would ever call an Atlas Champion "Half A Man." They wouldn't dare. And nobody has to settle for "Second Best" . . . be "pushed around" by huskier fellows . . . or go through life feeling HALF-ALIVE. CHARLES ATLAS, himself, tells you what you can do about it—and FAST—right on this page!

Take a good honest look at yourself! Are you proud of your body or are you satisfied to go through life being just "half the man" you could be?

NO MATTER how ashamed of your present physical condition you may be—how old or young you are—you have the DORMANT muscle power in your God-given body to be a real HE-MAN. Believe me, I know because I was once a 97-pound HALF-ALIVE weakling. People laughed at my build . . . I was ashamed to strip for sports . . . shy of girls . . . afraid of competition.

Then I discovered the secret that changed me into "The World's Most Perfectly Developed Man." The secret I have shared with thousands of fellows like you to turn them into marvelous physical specimens—REAL HE-MEN from head to toe!

My Secret Builds Muscles FAST!

My Secret—"Dynamic Tension"—will turn the trick for you FAST! It's the NATURAL easy method you can practice right in the privacy of your own room—JUST 15 MINUTES EACH DAY—while your scrawny chest and shoulder muscles swell so big they almost split your coat seams . . . you get sledge hammer fists, a battering ram punch . . . ridges of solid stomach muscle . . . mighty legs that never tire!

NO theory. NO gadgets or contraptions. When you develop your strength through "Dynamic Tension," you can laugh at artificial muscle makers. You simply use the SLEEPING muscle-power in your own body almost unconsciously every minute of the day—walking, bending over, etc.—watch it increase, and multiply until you're covered with a brand-new suit of beautiful SOLID MUSCLE. You're a REAL HE-MAN!

Charles Atlas

veloped Man."
